So grieved did they seem that they were told if they had repented, there was no necessity of marrying, and that they had better return home as they came. To this they objected, and Mary, drying her eyes for a moment, said they had run off to get married, and marry they must, to which Isaac silently assented.

EXTRAORDINARY SCRNE IN AN ENGLISH CHURCH—A Tyrannical and Insolent Clergyman,—On Sunday afternoon has the inhabitants at St. Nicholas Church, Guilford, England, were astonished by the ocurrence of one of those interruptions to divine worship which are happily as uncommon as they are unseemly. While the curate of the parish was delivering his discourse, he made a sudden panse, and exclaimed, "Shut that book!" At first, we believe there was no response to this strange appeal, and the preacher repeated it. The gentleman to whom it was addressed then replied, "It's the Bible;" but the appeal was reiterated, and a few more words passed between the pulpit and the pew. At length the preacher advised Mr. —— to shut the book immediately, upon which the gentleman took up the book and left the sacred building, accompanied by his wife. The congregation, we need scarcely add, was thrown into a state of great excitement by this expaordinary episode, and it has been the talk of the town during the past week. Mr.

EXTRAGRDINARY CATASTROPHE—A French Farmer Sting to Death.—A young farmer named Jay, of St. Cryan, near Meaux, went into a wood to collect leaves of a mut tree for his oxen. He began beating down the leaves with a long stick, and hefore long was enveloped in a cloud of dust, which produced such a violent cough that he was obliged to return home. His face, hands and neck soon became covered with pimples, he had a violent fever, and insupportable itching, and in a few hours expired.

It turned out that the farmer had disturbed a nest of the insect called, by French naturalists, the Bombyz processionairs, which is very venomous, and which places its eggs in the midst of a sort of dust. This dust, which is very volatile, causes ulcerations in the skin of man, and is most dangerous when it enters the respiratory organs.

MEXTING OF THE DOCTORS.—On Tuesday night last, according to previous announcement, the Medical Societies of this city and Covington, assembled at Dr. Tripler's office, in the Barracks. An essay on Parturition, was read by Dr. Major, which elicited no small amount of attention and interest. Another essay on Puerperal Fever was presented and read by Dr. Thomas, of Covington, which was also well received. After transacting other minor business, a capital supper was served up, consisting of roast turkey, oysters raw, fried, stewed, scolloped and broiled, together with other substantials not necessary to particularize. This was followed with a bounteous supply of Champagne, Sparkling Catawba, etc. The gathering of the Doctors in this instance proved a pleasant one, and although they sometimes disagree upon some speciality of disease to which the human body is liable, they were of one opinion respecting their reunion and Dr. Tripler's hospitality.

The circumstances were of such a nature that it would not admit of their standing upon the order of tearing down the fence, but it was leveled in an instant. At a late session of the City Council, a bill of $7 was presented to that body for the above act. It was referred to the committee who handed the bill to the fire-company, which they justly refused to pay. To say the least, this is rather a small way to "get your money back." We would suggest to the company to offset the bill by offering their account of services rendered, to the amount of $100. amount of $100.
